TUESDAY'S WRECK.

THE REPUBLICANS SEEKING SOME COMFORTING EXCUSE.

Stalwart and Half-Breed Indulging in Mutual Accuse tions—Dismay Among the Officeholders—The President to Work His Office for All that it is Worth—Possibilit.es of 1884.

Special to the Cincinnati Enquirer.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—The November political cyclone, which swept over the United States on Tuesday has settled like a storm-cloud over the capitol city, and has stricken terror to the faithful cohorts. After a system of highway robbery, which has confronted them since the campaign set in, the poor devils had reason to expect some palatable results. All, however, is gloom. The future is black, and as time in its cycle spans two more years they have visions of being set out on the curb to draw substance fron set out on the curb to draw substance from some other teat than Uncle Sam's. Since the ante-belium days, save the tidal-wave of 1874, there has been no such year for the democrats. The victory of 1874, however, in contrast with yesday, is not comparable. It was as a mill-dam to a cataract. There are all manner of explanations touching the republican defeat. Arthur is blamed; so are Keifer, Robeson, the river and harbor bill, and innate cussedness. The half-breeds try to put it on the stalwarts, and the latter on Blaine and the half-breeds. All, however, seem to be under staiwarts, and the latter on Blaine and the half-breeds. All, however, seem to be under the load of hay. The unprecedented victory by which Cleveland was elected has already forged him to a first place in the ranks of presidential candidates. Calculating political sages says that if his administration as governor is clean, his nomination is assured, with an Ohio or Indiana man for second place. Then there are nomination is assured, with an Onio of Indiana man for second place. Then there are others, who, while they admit that the republican party cannot be reunited, do not concede that a democrat as a distinctive candidate, put up by a national democratic convention, can be elected. These affect to believe that out of the political chaos a new party can be formed, with the right kind of a leader which can draw recruits from both leader, which can draw recruits from both.

Again, there is talk that the republicans will reorganize on some basis with the tariff as the eading question, and take a leader like Joe Hawley or Ben Harrison. Of all the curious rumors drifting, the most startling is that from henceforward Arthur will use the presidential office for all it is worth. His policy thus far has been shaped with an eye single to conciliate the half-breeds. Now he is to punish them. He has made nothing by conciliation, and driven off friends. A stalwart, the gossips have it, will succeed Robertson, the New York collector; and the cabinet is to be reorganized for ag-gressiveness rather than respectability. Veiw-ed in any light, the result is the most terrific ed in any light, the result is the most terrinc rebuke an administration has ever received. The half-breeds prance with delight, drag out the bones of the dead president, and go so far as to say that his murder is avenged. Even a class of stalwarts are glad, because they think Arthur will now brace up and administer his office in the interest of their own faction. The friends of Blaine, or ome of them, say that behind the scenes Blaine has pulled the wires which has brought down the republican tabernacle. The men down the republican tabernacle. The men who are rebuked by the defeat are the men who have defeated his presidential nomina-tion in two national conventions. This, no doubt, is a wise deduction in the light of facts; but the men thus rebuked have good memories, and would and could destroy Blaine should he ever be nominated.

The success of Butler in Massachusetts is re relief with more general satisfaction by the republicans than any other feature of Tuesday's battle. There has been a good deal of hypocrisy and cant among Massachusetts statesmen which it is thought bluff Ben Butler will unmask. His election means the retirement from public life of George Frishee tirement from public life of George Frisber Hoar. Rumors that Butler has designs on the presidency as an independent workingman's candidate also find believers; and as nothing is improbable in Butler's political course, he tion. On all sides it is conceded that the day o the bosses is at an end—that is, the old bosse Not only that Grant, Conkling, Cameron Logan, et. al., are under the load of hay, bu Blaine, who put them there, as well feeling drifts toward a new man-some on who, from obscurity, as with Lincoln, will spring up and reunite the hosts. No one beieves that any of the old stokers can fire up the machine which was smashed vesterda for successful service again. Meanwhile the democrats, who have suffered and waited long, live in the blissful hope that an estate which has too long been corruptly administered will pass into their hands, and that when it does their land will be filled with milk and honey.

Cleveland's Majority Still Growing-The Result in Virginia and Other States. Special to The Constitution.

RICHMOND, November 10 .- Returns continue to decrease the majority of John S Wise, the Mahone candidate for congressman at-large, and he is now not over 4,500 ahead. That the face of the returns will show his eletion by certainly 2,000 there is no doubt, but the democrats insist that this number is made up of bogus votes which they will contest. Despite the backing of Arthur and the use of one hundred thousand dollars of the Jay Hubbell fund, the readjuster majority of last year has fallen off. The majority of Came ron, the Mahone governor, who is known by the soubriquet of the "Toe-nail governor," was over twelve thousand, and it is conceded that the majority of Wise will not acceeded that the majority of Wise will not exceed 5,000, or perhaps much less. So there is a falling off of 7,000 or 8,000 votes at least. result shows that but for the unlimited ase of the postal service and other branches of the United States government by Mahone, even this apparent majority could not have been attained. The congressional delegation now stands four democrats and six coalitionists. Paul in the seventh and Mayo in the first districts have been returned elected by majorities of about 200 votes each, but the use of fraud and bogus tax receipts will, it is conceded, overwhelm their chances of retaining their seats. The coalitionists, while assuming an air of cheerfulness, are crest-fallen

A ficial figures to fix his actual majority. tabulated statement is published by The State, democratic, and this evening gives the gains and losses in ninety-three counties and cities, official and unofficial, which show a net democratic gain over Governor Cameron' majority of last year of 5,449. Proportionate gains in the fifteen counties not reported will leave Massey, democrat, about 4,000 behind, which will be Wise's majority. The Dispatch's (democrat) figures are more favorable, and reduces Wise's majority to 2,000. The Whig coalition keeps its figures up to 6,000 or 8,000. coalition keeps its figures up to 6,000 or 8,000 majority for Wise. The first district is still doubtful, both sides claiming it. If the democrats secure the congressional delegation it will stand 5 democrats and 5 coalitionists, otherwise the coalitionists will have 6 and the mocrats. There is much talk about

Des Moines, November 10.—A special to the State Register gives full official returns in the congressional districts heretofore in doubt. In the fourth district Weller, greenbacker and fusion, is elected over Updegraf by 625. In the fifth district Wilson, republican, with every precinct heard from, is elected by 630 majority. In the ninth district Puzey, democrat carries seven of the nine counties, and ocrat, carries seven of the nine counties, and is elected by a net majority of 2,104. The majority of McCoid, republican, in the first district, is 259. The State Register indicates a republican majority for the state ticket of 30,000 or 40,000.

INDIANA. INDIANA. INDIANA. INDIANAL INDIANAPOLIS, November 10.—The official canvassof the vote in this county was concluded at six o'clock this morning. The majority for Peele, republican, for congress from this county is 640, the majority in the district 87. Additional returns from the congressional districts confirm the previous reports, leaving the delegation nine democrats and four republicans. The democratic majority on the state ticket will be from 10,000 to 12,000.

NEW YORK, November 10.—A Nashville, Tennessee, special to the Evening Post, says: Bate's, democrat, majority over Hawkins, republican, for governor, is so far about 26,000, and over all about 16,000. The legislature is largely democratic in both houses. Two re-publican congressmen are elected, Pettibone in the first, and Houk in the second district a loss of one congressman from the tenth district.

A few claim that the returns from Dade and Brevard counties will elect Finley. Both sides are anxious. If Bisbee is elected the democrats will contest on the grounds of illegal republican contesting and voting. The second districts of Florida will probably have another contested election.

PENNSYLVANIA. Special to The Constitution.
Philadelphia, November 10.—The returns from every county in the state, of which 56 are official, give Pattison, democrat, for governor, 38,850 plurality over Beaver, republican. Pattison has a plurality in 48 counties and Beaver in 19. It is not believed that the estimate of the vote in the 11 counties not officially reported will be materially changed.

ALBANY, N. Y., November 10.—The Evening Journal estimates Cleveland's majority at 194,600; Hill, lieutenant governor, majority at about 119,000; General Slocum's majorit at 107,000, and claims that the Erie canal amendment is adopted by over 200,000 votes and the judiciary amendment by at least 55,

NEW ORLEANS, November 10.—The Times-Democrat's Holly Springs, Miss., special says that the inspectors of election in this county have discovered frauds in five boxes, which will be thrown out, thus reducing Chalmer's majority to 460. Manning's friends are still opeful of the final count giving him a larg majority.

N, November 10.—The Standard, in an editorial this morning, says: If the republicans in the United States lay seriously to heart the plain facts of Tuesday's elections, hey will not, in the long run, have much nfiture in which the misconduct of thei eaders have involved them. The Standard adds that the result will certainly give an im-cetus to civil service reform. There lies the cope of the future for honest men of all potical opinions and the remedy for the evil which now deprave politics.

The Daily Telegraph 'his morning in an editorial on the American elections, referring o civil service reform, says: "We may take it or granted that the disgust at the continued ndifference of the party managers to the naional disgrace tended greatly to alienate thousands of voters who stayed at thome or, defying all traditions of their political lies, voted the democrath-ticket. ARCTIC REVELATIONS MADE BY MELVILLE IN HIS JEAN NETTE TESTIMONY. The Jealousies Engendered on the Trip—DeLon Places Danenhower Under Arrest, and Does Other Queer Things—The Trip Across the Ice—Dallying with Precious Time.

WASHINGTON, November 10 .- The monotony of the repetition of the oft-told stories in the Jeannette investigation, was to-day broken by Engineer Melville, who described something of the dissensions among the unfortunate men, which have been heretofore vaguely alluded to. Lieutenant Danenhower has tes tified that he advised Captain DeLong against attempting to reach the mouth of the Lena river, when their ship broke up, but rather to make for the nearest point on the Siberian coast, and follow it towards Behring's straits. Melville testified that he also advised against attempt testified that he also advised against attempting the journey to the Lena river, and in favor of the river Yana, far to the westward of the point chosen by DeLong. To-day in his account of the journey over the ice by the wrecked party, Melville said: "After some days Captain DeLong directed Mr. Collins, scientified and Herild coverage days to the days of the said scientist and Herald correspondent, not to do any more work, owing to a conversation between DeLong and Collins in regard to disobedience of orders on the part of Collins. The captain relieved him from duty, but did not put him under arrest. He was free to come and go as the pleased not put him under arrest. He was free to come and go as he pleased, simply getting permission from the captain or executive officer. The witness did not know the reason why Collins was directed at this time not to do any duty. Collins spoke to witness about it at the time, and said he had been directed not to perform any further duty. The captain had previously spoken to the witness about it, and had charged him not to permit Collins to do any more duty. Up to this time Collins had been working with to this time Collins had been working with the road party. At this time Chipp completely broke down, and the captain ordered him to get a sled and be carried. "The poor felto get a sled and be carried. "The poor fellow," said the witness, "turned over on his face and cried out: 'It is all over; you had better leave me behind.' DeLong said: 'No man shall be left behind while another man lives to haul him.' Soon after this Chipp began to get better rapidly and again took charge of the working party." After describing the discovery on Bennett Island and their stay thereon, Melville continued: "About August the 6th the party left the island with boats. Previous to starting Captain About August the oth the party left the is-land with boats. Previous to starting Captain DeLong called the witness and told him to take charge of the whale boat, and gave him written orders to that effect. The original order of Captain DeLong was put in evidence and read. The witness described the difficulties experienced in get-ting the boats through and over the ice. Captain DeLong had designated who should go n each boat as they embarked in open water. The witness had the tiller in the whaleboat. Danenhower held the sheet and Newcomb worked the sail. Seeing that the first cutter, Chipp's boat, was beating then, in working to be windward, the witness told Danen hower to take the tiller, and New comb the sheet, while he, witness comb the sheet, while he, witness, worked the sail. Being stronger he could do so quicker than Newcomb. Under this arrangement the whale boat soon beat the cutters. The witness remarked: "I the cutters. The witness remarked: "I should, perhaps, at this point say that before leaving the island some controversy took place between Danenhower and Newcomb, place between Danenhower and Newcomb, and the latter was suspended from duty by the captain. As we were about embarking, eeing that Newcomb was detailed to go ir my boat, I asked the captain what was New-comb's status. He replied: 'He is under sus-pension, but that will not prevent him from rendering you whatever assistance you may require in working the boat.' When we landed on the ice to camp for the night, Captain DeLong asked me if Danenhower had assumed to take command, or why I had permitted him to take the tiller. I told him the reason, that I did not want to be beaten by the first cutter and had made the arrange-ment he had noted for that reason. He said. All right. But you must remember that I not want Danenhower to do any duty while he is on the sick list. I told Danenhower about it. He said he was able and desired to do duty. I said those are the captain's orders and if you do not like the arrangements I will ask the captain to let you go in another boat. He said no, that he had rather be in my boat than any other.

IRISH OPPOSITION TO WOLSELEY.

DUBLIN, November 10.—At the meeting of he corporation of Dublin to-day, a heated dis cussion occurred on a motion to thank the First regiment who served in Egypt for their gallantry, and to confer the freedom of the city on Sir Garnet Wolseley. The knowledge that the project of thus honoring Wolseley was revived has caused much excitement. His friends are accused of endeavoring to scratch a vote where the national members of the corporation are absent attending to their parliamentary duties. Crowds thronged to the vicinity of the hall. T. D. Sullivan and some of the other Irish members of parliament had hurried to Dublin to assist in defeating the motion. An amendment by Mr. Sullivan declaring that Ireland had no interest in war, the only result of which was to increase taxation and carry ruin to Irish homes, was ultimately carried by a vote of the Secretary of War. Washington, November 10.—General Sherman has submitted to the secretary of war a special report on the subject of military posts and forts, in which he says the time is now at hand for a radical change in the whole system of piece-meal work in quartering the troops of the United States. For a hundred years we have been sweeping across the con-tinent with a skirmish line, building a post here and another there, to be abandoned next year for another line, and so on. Now we are across, and have railroads everywhere, so that the whole problem is changed, and I advise the honorable secretary of to congress with to go to congress with a plan that will approximate permanency instead, as heretofore, of meeting the specific temporary wants by special appropriations in the interest of private parties. General Sher-man outlines a plan in which he suggests that a number of posts which he names be made permanent, with substantial buildings. The most of these are in the west and northwest. The following are the only southern ones: Fort Gibson, Indian Territory, with accommodations for four companies; Little Rock, two companies; Fort Marion, Fla., two companies; Little Rock, panies; Mount Vernon barracks, Ala., two ompanies, and San Antonia, Texas, twelve companies. For carrying out the plan thus companies. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, November 10 .- It has come to light that at a meeting of the higher priesthood after the late conference, nt Taylor instructed them that priests and bishops, and their councillors, are not entitled to hold their positions unless they ualify by becoming polygamists. There are a few such officers who are monogamists. One has since resigned rather than take another wife. His resignation was accepted. Others are in a guandary as to what to do about it. One has been appointed president of the seventies on condition that he take another wife. One very young and new made apostle, it. is understood, has complied with the condition of holding his office. This is the logic of the po-sition taken by the church. GEORGIA'S CONVICTS.

REFORT OF THE PRINCIPAL KEEP ER OF THE PENITENTIARY.

Are, What They Are Doing, etc.- A Sketch of the Penitentiary Systems of the State-An Im-

The brennial report of Captain J. W. Nelms principal keeper of the penitentiary was is sued from the press yesterday afternoon. It contains much matter of interest in connec tion with that department of the state government. It contains a classified list of the convicts in the penitentiary. There were on the prison lists October 20th, 1880, 186 convicts, and from that dete to October 20, 1882, 538 making a total of 1,724. There have 324 discharged; 109 been 26 escapes and 22 deaths. That leaves now in the penitentiary 1,243 convicts. Of that number 1,130 are colored and the remainder are whites. There are 112 white males and one white female; 1,100 col ored males, and 30 colored females. oldest convict is 78, and the youngest is twelve years old. The income from the penitentiary is $25,000 per annum, out of which are paid the expenses of the department. The price per capita per annum is $20.11. Captain Nelms begins his report with a statement of the locations and occupations of the convicts now in the penitentiary.

WHERE THE CONVICTS ARE.

Penitentiary No. 1 is in Dade county, and the hands are there employed in mining coal.

No. 2 is located in Dougherty, having four branches, one in Polk county, mining iron ore: one in Catoosa, quarrying rock; one in Fulton, making brick; one in Dodge, making tremways, and doing other work. Peniten-tiary No. 3, removed from Greene county to Jefferson, has several branch camps; the hands are engaged in railroad work, with one camp in Oglethorpe county, under the con-trol of Mr. Jas. M. Smith. The remainder of the convicts are in the hands of the authori ties of the Marietta and North Georgia rail road, by the special grant of the state, and without charge. Forty-six miles of this road have been constructed and are now in running order. Forty miles remain vet to be constructed in this state, a part of which are now graded. The legislature of Georgia, by act approved September 28, 1881, created the office of assistant keeper of the penitentiary, which office the needs of the penitentiary absolutely demanded. It has been ably and most faithfully filled by Colo-nel John R Towers, of the county of Floyd. His monthly visits to each camp have been of the greatest utility, and his reports having the guarantee of his high character for probity and intelligence, and made under oath, are entitled to the fullest confidence of the public. Each convict is examined by him his true condition is understood. T monthly reports are regularly filed in this office and are open to the inspection of the HOW PUNISHMENT IS INFLICTED.

An amendatory act provides, among other hings, for the mode of inflicting punishment when it is to be administered to convicts. Under a penalty extending from six months to two years imprisonment in the peniten-tiary, no one is allowed to stripe or punish a convict unless authorized to do so by specia appointment, approved by the governor. This rule has been so rigidly enforced that only one case has been made against an offender under this law, for which prosecution is now pend-ing. Another merciful and benignan pro-vision of the act of 1881 requires the lessee who has in his control a convict at the expiration of his term of service, to provide certain amount of transportation and a suit of clothes, worth not less than six dollars for of clothes, worth not less than six dollars for said convict. And while the lessees claim that this charge is a condition interpolated on the original lease, they are, without exception, complying with the terms. The public have in addition to other safe guarantees afforded by our penitentiary law for the proper care and discipline of convicts in our penitentiary, the visits and formal reports of our grand juries,

THE REFORMS EFFECTED.

Captain Nelms says that the reforms effect ed by the state of Georgia in the penitentiary system are not only substantial and unques ionable, but they are really in advance of those of most states in christendom. has been the work, hard and anxious labor, of fifty years. Confinement in walls of our convicts, when the prison roll rarely reached s many as two hundred names was such rden to the people of Georgia, that by act of 24th of December, 1831, the penitentiary was abolished. The substitutes provided for the punishment of offenders against the laws were so unsatisfactory, that the general assembly of 1832 re-enacted the law, established the old system. Again in 1851-52, the load of taxation in support of onvicts became a matter of popular com-plaint and more discussion of the abolition of the old wall plan was heard. But not until after the war did the inmates of the state prison become so numerous and the burden of their maintenance so intolerable that a the legislature, on the 28th of December, 1866, Governor Jenkins was authorized to farm out the convicts on the best terms sible. This law the governor did not execute, as he was removed from of ficeby the general government. General Ruger having succeeded Governor Jen-kins by federal appointment, feeling the embarrassment and pressure resulting from a crowded state's prison, practically en-forced the previous act of the legislature which the destruction of our state government under Governor Jenkins prevented Captain Nelms says "that right or wrong wise or unwise, good, bad or indifferent, le the present plan of punishment of criminals by the state be, General Ruger, under the auspices and responsibility of the party that at that day dominated every interest and right in Georgia, is the power that inaugura ted the present system. SOME HISTORY OF THE LEASE SYSTEM,

Captain Nelms gives a short history of the lease system, stating that on the 11th day of May, 1868, General Ruger made the first lease of Georgia convicts—he made the second lease in the following July, and on the 5th of the following November, Rufus B. Bullock, then governor of the state, contracted with Messrs. rant & Alexander to take the entire convic force of the state. Under the authority and direction of law, Governor Smith executed the additional leases of our convicts, includ ing the one under which we are now operat ing. This lease will not expire before 1899 Under its provisions the convicts in the con trol of the several lessees are to be kept and disciplined under the strict rules already re ferred to, and for their services the state re ceives $25,000, subject to no deduction." He says it will require something more patent than the sneers of the captious fault-finders and habitual depreciator of all things south-ern, to induce the people of Georgia to throw down an experiment, and reject its lessons, that has been such a triumphant success as our penitentiary system. In the 49 years of our history previous to the present plan, our convicts cost us more than a half million of dollars to make up the deficit, after crediting our penitentiary with every dollar earned by its convicts. These convicts were all white men, and rarely, if ever, exceeded, at any one muster call 180 names. The average number for some time back per on our hands exceeds 1,200, and the cry is, still they come. THE ADVANTAGES OF THE SYSTEM

To "corral" this multitude in brick walls, eight-tenths of whom are unskilled negro hands, would, in addition to our other burdens, prove such an intolerable load as to dens, prove such an intolerable load as to arouse our entire tax-paying, law-abiding population to resistance.

"And why should we go back to the old wall system?" asks Captain Nelms.

"Where can a man who has made himself a convict by his crimes be more mercifully punished than we are illustrating by our system?" A death rate of preventers. system? A death rate of one per cent; re-convicted criminals but four per cent; es-capes numbering in all but twenty-six in two years; a bill of fare as bountiful and varied, if not far more so, than most of the laboring population of the world enjoys; moral and religious influence and instruction constantly supplied-we insist elevates far above the province of doubtful experiment the present punitive system of Georgia. We may punitive system of Georgia. We may maintain our composure at least, if we do not brag, until other states more pretentions and boastful place us at a disad-vantage in the comparison by showing better results. So far as my personal inspec-tion and that of my assistant can be accepted as well as the reports of the physician of the penitentiary, the lease system is working with the least possible friction, tending to disappointment or reasonable objection. The diet of the convicts for the daily ration con-sists of three-quarters of a pound of becomsists of three-quarters of a pound of bacon, two pounds of bread, one pint of syrup, turnips, with vegetables in their seaturnips, in son, in summer and peas, and potatoes in winter, with fresh beef and mutton when procurable. Their cloth-ing consists of four suits of clothes, two summer and two winter suits, two pair of shoes, a hat or cap for the year's supply. A change of clothing and a bath is exacted of every convict once a week. The bedding consists of a cotton or shuck mattress with a sufficient cy of blanket covering. The buildings for shelter are securely and comfortably built, and no reasonable objections can be urged against these when the purposes of their construction are considered.

There have been twenty-six escapes in the last two years, all of which have either been recaptured, or the fines collected which the law imposed for their escape, or suits brought for the recovery of the fines due. This is said.

for the recovery of the fines due. This is said. however, of all the escapes from the lessees. There are seven escapes from the force loaned by the state to the Marietta and North Georgia railroad—for which the road authorities contend the road is not liable, as the use of the convicts in their possession is a gratuity from the state to the road and the public interested in it. A RECORD OF CONVICTS.

From March 10th 1817, to the 20th of Octo-

per, 1882, the number received has amounted to 6.844. Of this number, in sixty-five years the discharges were 2,871; the deaths were 573; the escapes 816, and the pardoned 1,341. The number of convicts at the date of this report in the penitentiary is 1,243. It may be interesting to state the fact that for the forty-nine years before the war the whole number of our penitentiary convicts was 2,029, all white, and for the twenty-six years subsequent they have been 4,815.

During the present state administration, say from the 31st December, 1876, there were in the state's prison 1,108 convicts, and there have been received since to October 20th. 1882, 1,530 making a total of 2,658. Of this number the discharges have been 897; the pardoned 197; the deaths 182; the escapes

In strict justice to the state of Georgia it hould be claimed that nowhere else, under should be claimed that howhere ease, under no other system, can such a death-rate be shown in such a large number of prisoners— taken from such an extended and diverse sur-face, and who have been kept at penal servi-tude. The instance of the branch peniten-tiary of Mr. James M. Smith, in Oglethorpe county, may be said to present a case almost phenomenal—out of an average of seventy prisoners kept closely at lator in three years prisoners kept closely at labor, in three years his lists do not report a single death or escape. The death-rate for the entire number of our onvicts is only about one per cent.

In closing up his report Captain Nelms suggests that every dollar of the twenty-five thousand annually derived from the lease of convicts be spent for their exclusive benefit. That this amount could be absorbed in employing first-rate men, of the highest character and qualifications to give religious in-struction and such educational facilities, as ander the conditions of our prison discipline are practicable to the convicts in every camp n the state. And out of this fund, establish ibraries of religious and other works that yould be assistants in the oral instructions of the chaplains.

I have sold at retail in four months over 12 dozen S S S, and have watched its effects very closely, and to every one it has given entire satisfaction. I have seen it used in the primary, secondary and tertiary stages with the most wonderful effect. I have seen it stop the hair from falling out in a very short time. I advise all sufferers to take it and be cured.

DENVER, Col., August 29, 1882.

Jents—I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude to you for the cure your Swift's Speci fic has effected in my case. I was afflicted with the horrible blood disease for three years, and affer spending some time at the Hot Springs, considered my case a hopeless one.

I used only one dozen small bottles of S S S and there is not a sign of the disease remaining. My sores are all kealed, my throat is entirely well, and I am rid of the terrible monster.

Being a drug clerk, I have seen so many hundreds of men dosed with calomel, iodide of mercury and iodide of potash, until they were made complete wrecks, that I shudder to think of the misery which has been brought on the human family by the use of mercurials for blood disease. It is a crying shame that physicians will not acknowledge the merit of your GRAND Blood Medicine. Use my name as you wish. I refer you to my present employers, or to Messrs. Colling Bros, St Louis.

THE CONSTITUTION,
Atlanta, Georgie.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 11, 1882.

THE signal service bureau report indicates for the South Atlantic and East Gulf states to-day, slightly warmer, fair weather, light variable winds, mostly southerly, stationary or lower pressure.

THE New York Sun , in the light of the re turns for its own state, says there has never been anything to equal it since Brough defeated Vallandigham for governor of Ohio in 1863 by 101,099 majority.

When the new year comes in there will be twenty-one democratic governors, leaving the republicans only seventeen. Another such sweep would give Iowa a democratic governor, and leave Rhode Island a lonely relic of the old regime.

THE speakership of the next house begins to loom up, and while there are many aspirants, the public mind turns by a large majority, towards Carlisle, Eaton and Randall. There is a feeling abroad that Mr. Randall can do better service on the floor than in the CAPTAIN NELMS'S report is a proof of the efficiency of the work of the penitentiary. His statement of facts is clear and conclusive s far as the work of the penitentiary is concerne i. A glance at it shows the prisoners ought to get fat, and the death rate is a sure sign of the healthfulness of the system.

Up to the present writing we have not heard from our man that went to Towns county to get the news of the congressional election on the 7th instant. We would be pleased to hear from that county. We are afraid to risk another man up there until we hear what be

WHILE the democrats will have only thirtysix enators in the congress, the republican will not have a clear majority. They wil have 38, or just half of the senate. This will continue the dictatorship of Mahone, who, aided by his man Friday. Riddleberger, will be sure to use his power over the republican party for all it is worth.

WE may as well admit that the republicans mill hold the senate until 1885. The legislas of New Hampshire, Illinois, Colorado and Kansas are all claimed by the republi cans. If these claims are sustained the democrats will have to be content after the fourth of next March with 36 senators out of 76. It would be cruel to take the senate from the republicans at this juncture in their affairs.

THE Gainesville Southron is sad and weary over the fact that there is only one mail a day ing voice and declares that our politics need ness on this long and important line is embarrassed by the short sighted policy of the Richmond people. If the general manager of the road would visit Georgia and give the subject proper attention, we are sure that he would order back the trains that had become almost a necessity to the people. As the trains are now run commercial travelers, for example, prefer to hire a hack.

MR. BLACK'S SPEECH.

For a long time we have been told that there was great corruption in Georgia politics, and that there was to be instituted great reforms. When we inquired where this corruption was, and what these reforms were to we were told that Mr. Black, of Rich mend, would soon be here and would tender the information in an eloquent and specific

Mr. Black came, and last night made his promised speech. We listened patiently to the impassioned rhetoric with which the orator delighted his audience, but heard none of the specifications that we were led to expect. Mr. Black showed no corruption and indicated no reform. He made only two specifications worthy of notice 1st. That a combination existed in Georgia that barred out of office and preferment all young men who were not in its charmed circle; and 2d. That our politics must be re formed by letting the office seek the man instead of the man seek the office.

As to the first specification, the facts will hardly bear out Mr. Black's statement. It can hardly have slipped Mr. Black's memory that Mr. Seaborn Reese, a young man, has just been elected to congress. Mr. Reese is surely not a member of any combination. Judge Crisp has just been elected he congress—is member corrupt ring? Mr. Garrard been elected iust speaker of the house. Is he a member of a ring? Messrs. Fort and Adams and Bower have ast been elected judges-are they members of aring? A young man will be elected to the short term of the senate next week. Must he be a member of a ring to get his place? Is Jud Clements a member of a ring, or Comptroller Wright, or Treasurer Speer, or Hon. John C. Nicholls, or Mr. Buchanan, or Jim Blount, or Nat Hammond? If none can be elected to office in Georgia without truckling to a ring, then these gentlemen (and the Hon. Allen Candler and hundreds like them) must be members of a ring or its beneficiaries. The truth is Mr. Black's statement would cry of defeated candidates from time immemorial, that there was a ring to crush them out. It has been the cry of aspirants all the time that there was a combi- the house. nation against their elect to keep them out of office no ring, and Mr. Bla e truth is, there very naturally directs his fire on the leading charges on the most plausible issue against that candidate.

As to the office seeking the man, we respectfully submit that Mr. Black is as actively in the race for the senate as any man ever was. The corridors of the capitol are thronged daily by his friends urging his election. Last night a special train, bearing a picked delegation of nearly one hundred men from Mr. Black's section, reached this city, and marched two by two to the scene of action under perfect discipline and order. We do not complain of this extraordinary invasion of the capitol. If these gentlemen from Augusta think they understand the situation better than the members of the legislature and can instruct the mempers as to their duty, we have no objection to their coming. If they wish to come and reinforce the crowd of politicians that fill the hotels and the capitol in the attempt to defeat Governor Colquitt, and crush him out of public ife, by combining all the elements against him, we have no objection. On the contrary, we are glad to see them. But we do claim that doing this, they have no right, and their candidate has no right, to claim that they are letting "the office seek the man," and that he friends of Governor Colquitt, who meet their persistent and extraordinary assaults with firmness and counter-work, are guilty of an indecency of which they are innocent and to which they would not stoop. If the office is to really seek the man, why did the man make his remarkable speech before the electors last night? Why do the friends of the man fill the lobbies of the capitol and urge his claim in season and out of season on the members? Why do his fellow-citizens charter a special train and descend upon us two by two and nearly a hundred strong? Could not the office find the man, if the man stayed at home? Didn't the office find old Cincinnatus when Rome needed him? Did he have to leave his plow and go to the city to help the office find him? Did his friends charter a special train and go to Rome, two by two, to help the senate find the patriotic plowman!

was hunting the man?

Would any Arcadian youth have thought of

Mr. Black has a perfect right to be in this race. Nobody shuts him out. He has no bosses to fight except the members of the legislature, and there will be no combination that can stand between him and his ambition except a combination of 110 votes of the joint ses sion. It's a fair fight. Let it be a frank and open one. Governor Colquitt wants to be enator; so does Mr. Black; so does Judge Jackson; and so does Mr. Anderson. They are all in the field. Let the legislature pick out the best one and elect him. If the office wants to seek the man let it seek. It will not have far to go nor much trouble to find. One thing more. It is a little remarkable that in the midst of general democratic reoicing the only voice of complaint and as ault we hear is from a democrat. For the first time in ten years Georgia has elected its first full organized democratic delegation to congress. For the first time in ten years the party has swept every district, and it is stron ger and better, and more harmonious, and more firmly united, and more assured of victory than ever before. While the people re joice, and the friends o democracy are glad, and the old state is in the hands of the party once more Mr. Black, of Richmond, raises a complainthis sort of thing. They are satisfied with the record. A party that polls 62,000 majority and redeems two districts that for ten years have been in the hands of the opposition puts down coalition and conspiracy in every nook and corner of the state, does not need reforming much-even if that reform is to let the office seek the man who is also seeking the office. Mr. Black comes here as a democratic candidate before a democratic legislature, attend ed by a crowd of democratic friends. His speech was invective all the way through. Against whom and what was this invective directed-against the republican party? Against the infamous methods of the national republicans? Against the star route fraud and the alarming tendencies of the Arthur regime? No; not one word did he have to say against the enemies of his party; not one word against the most corrupt organization that this country ever saw. Every word, ev ery syllable, every assault, every insinuation every epithet or threat was directed against democrats and the democratic party. Couldn't he have spared one moment for a denunciation of the republican party? or failing in this, couldn't he have at least specified some act of corruption or indecency that justified his assaults on his own party and his own party comrades? Couldn't he, at least have shown some error of leadership, or some mishap of result that would have excused his charges of corruption and mal-administration? It appears not. THE GEORGIA DELEGATION. The official majorities of the democratic ongressmen elected in Georgia have not all been footed up. The majority of Thomas Hardeman, for congressman at large, is some thing larger than the majorities of the other congressmen combined. John C. Nicholls. in the first district, has a majority of about 4,500; Henry G. Turner, in the second district, has a majority of about 2,300: Charles S. Crisp, in the third, had no opposition; Hugh Buchanan, in the fourth, has a majority of about 5,000; N. J. Hammond, in the fifth, has a majority of about 5,000; James H. Blount, in the sixth, had no opposition; Judson C. Clements, in the seventh, has a majority of about 1,500; Seaborn Reese, in the eighth, had no opposition; Allan D. Candler, in the ninth, has a majority of about 3,000.

Of this delegation, Henry G. Turner, Hugh Buchanan, N. J. Hammond, James H. Blount, and Judson C. Clements are re-elected. They have served their constituents faithfully, and be absurd if it were not so venerable and of they return to the house with considerable such long usage. It has been the experience in legislation. This gives the democrats a clear majority over all of 65-a majority of 71 over the republicans. These figures will not be materially changed by the official returns. It may be that Colorado's representative will be a republican, and it may turn out that the republicans have elected an such assistance to the office that Diogenes-like additional member in North Carolina. In every other respect, the table is a safe estimate. It is at least certain that the demo erats will have a clear majority of 50. In the tidal-wave congress of 1874 they had a majority of over 70, but in no other congress has the democratic majority risen to 50. It is altogether enough.

Unlike the majority in the congress of 1874. the democratic majority in the new congress will be well distributed. Of the 195 democrats, the south will furnish only 70, while from the northern states will come to Washington 125. Then, too, the democrats will control the delegations of twenty-two states, namely, Arkansas, Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, Nevada, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina Tennssee, Texas and West Virginia. The re publicans will have fourteen delegations, and the states of Florida and Virginia will probably be evenly divided. All of these divisions are of importance, especially in view of the fact that on the new house may devolve the duty of electing a president. It would then, of course, vote by states.

ARE WE TO HAVE ANOTHER BLACK

When Judge Folger obtained his own con sent to become the tool of the Conkling over the Air-Line railroad. Every branch of reforming. The people will not be disturbed by Gould combinations which was organized to control New York in the interests of monop ly and in behalf of the Arthur administration, he inaugurated the stupidest and most un successful campaign ever witnessed in this country by the declaration that a democrati rictory would depress business and unsettle values. The significance of this statement was not lost upon the Conkling organs, and they have continued to press it upon the ar tention of the business public with a persistence that showed a purpose to intimidate those who have large or small investments in stocks and bonds. Following the prediction of the secretary of the treasury, came a democratic victory in Ohio. This result produced no more than the usual fluctuations in Wall but now comes the most complete and over whelming political revolution conceivable extending from one end of the country to the other. And what is to be the result? If the business public, or any respectable class or element, were disposed to regard this revolution with feelings of apprehension or alarm, this disposition would make itself instantly felt in the depreciation of government securities, but so far there has not been th slightest sympton in this direction. Fluctua tion and depression elsewhere and in other di rections may be regarded as purely specula tive and artificial, having no sort of basis in or connection with the political upheaval

It is not to be denied. however, that Secre ary Folger's prediction possesses significance. It is so significant indeed that the business interests of the country cannot too quickly make up their minds to oust from power a party which, in addition to the other methods of corruption it has in vented, has not hesitated to lend the great financial power of the treasury of the United States to the daily uses of individual speculators in Wall street. What has happened once may happen again. When, in response to the manipulations of Jay Gould. the republican administration in Washington lent its powerful aid to bring the wreck and ruin of a Black Friday upon the business interests of a large section of country, the eyes of the people ought to have been opened to the dangers threatened by the reckless corruption of the republican leaders. We repeat, the prediction of Mr. Arthur's crushed and defeated secretary of the treasury, is significant. Stung by the overwhelming verdict against the party which placed him in nomination, he may endeavor, by using the influence of the treasury department in the interest of his desires, to convince the business interests of the country that republicanism and prosperity are interchange able terms. With Jay Gould at one end of the line, and a revengeful administration at the other, it will not be difficult to create serious fluctuations in values. It is only a question of recklessness, and a republican administration, headed by such a man as Ar.

THE attempt of the republican organs to revive the spoon story in regard to the great and good democratic governor of Massachusetts shows that their party is practically driven to the wall. It is sufficient to say that if the spoons disappeared at all, they disappeared when the great democratic leader of Massachusetts was a practicing republi-

IT seems to be the most difficult thing in the world to convince some estimable politicians that the people of Georgia are not swayed and controlled by prejudice and partisanship. This fact has been demonstrated on three several occasions recently. Those who persistently ignore it will be compelled to acknowledge it after awhile.

If to recognize facts that are perfectly plain to everybody except a few men who are blince by their own prejudices constitutes "the game of brag," then we are perfectly willing to admit that THE CONSTITUTION is in the habit of playing it. THE CONSTITUTION recognizes facts and prints all the news.

Some of our esteemed contemporaries continue to speak of the "bosses in Georgia politics." This is only another name fer the democratic inhabitants of our noble old commonwealth. Let us hope that these democratic inhabitants will long continue to wave and reign as the bosses in Georgia poli-cinct in the seventh and ninth Georgia districts, was a wonderful feat of modern journalism. The managers sent an agent into each of these districts, who employed special couriers to ride post-haste to the nearest telegraph station, with back precinct returns. All points on railroads were manued by vigilant and active reporters. By this machinery the official votes of these districts, widely scattered, and largely in the mountainous region of North Georgia, were concentrated and printed in luminous tables in The CONSTITUTION of yesterday morning. This, we say, is a most creditable piece of enterprise, and though it cost the paper about $1.200, the money is not wasted. The people appreciate the vehicle which brings them first that which they want the most to find out. They will sustain that wagon.

Governor Cleveland, like President Arthur, is the on of a clergyman, who gave him a liberal educ ion, although unable to send him to college When nearly of age young Cleveland became a teacher in the blind asylum on Tenth avenue New York city, where he is remembered by some of the old innates for his patience, courtesy and kindliness of feeling. While there he determined to seek a hom in the west, and on reaching Buffalo was persuaded o remain there by an uncle, who aided him in his law studies. He was examined for the bar by Judge Soah Davis, who was then a supreme court judg of the district, and not long ago that judge expresse to a reporter his remembrance of the excel lent examination he passed. At the same inter iew Judge Charles Daniels, who is a home judg in Buffalo, gave Mr. Cleveland the highest charac er as a man and a lawyer. Both of these judges although rigid republicans, worked and voted for him. Soon after his admission to the bar, Mr. Cley and was appointed assistant district-attorney rie county and did so well in the sub-office at he was nominated for the full office, but d that he was nominated for the full office, but de-feated with his party ticket. From was a popular Methodist minister. Young Robert's early educational training in the public schools was frequently and disagreeably interrupted by the yearly change of residence that his father, as a Methodist minister, was obliged to make. From the Penn grammar school at Mary and Master streets he was admitted to the high sch ol, from which he graduated after a four year's course, delivering the valedictory at the commencement. His first appearance in the political field was in 1875, when his friends tried to have him nominated for clerk of the quarter sessions, but Henry S. Hagert was chosen. In August, 1877, there months before his first election as comptroller, his name was before the democratic state convention for the auditor generalship. On the first ballot Mr. Pattison stood next to William P. Shell, but the latter was nominated on the second by a large majority. A month or so after this, when Mr. Pattison's legal preceptor met him at the corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets and suggested that he ought to be a candidate for comptroller, Mr. Pattison said he thought he had enough of politics. He was prevailed upon to run, however, and was elected by 15,000 majority.

Mr. Pattison lives in modest style at 3247 Sansom street. During the summer he has his family in an Atlantic City cottage. THE PROFESSOR

A large and delighted audience, at DeGive's opera house last right, if actions speak for it, pronounced the rendition of Gillette's comedy, entitled as above, a complete success. It might be sufficient to say that the dialogue bristles with bright sayings, and the situations are well worked up and thoroughly effective, and that the characters are well drawn and execellently played. That there is also just enough of pathos and sentiment to appeal to the sympathies of the audience, and at the same time to so run as to bring out the genu-ine fun of the piece. And that lastly it is of a thoroughly healthy moral tone, containing no hint that could be objected to. Yet 'tis due to say that the play is made decidedly more effective, and its enjoyableness added to by Mr. Gillette, as the Professor, supported by a competent and well trained company. As the "Professor" the matter of fact, absent minded, near sighted, unsophisticated man of science, Mr. Giland great attention to detail. His playing is excellent, and his character acting remarkable for its originality and finish. We have not space to speak of his delightfully scholastic air and manner, his handsome face, the delicate simplicity and truthfulness of his art. His unfatentional flirtations, and his involuntary betrothals all managed with infinite humor. Nor have we space to speak of Miss Belle Jackson, Miss Lizzle Durvy, Mrs. Taylor, yea, of each member of the company, for all are excellent. The Professor has a pretty, sunshiny story, one bright and joyous, sparkling with wit and humor Mr. Gillette, is good; his personation is worthy of high praise; he is well supported, and his sweethearts are all so charming that if the young gentlemen of A tlanta attend the performance to night, they will be surprised that the Professer is content himself, with only one of them. After referring to the general issues of the day, he came to the merits of his own case and said that he had thought it an honorable ambition to aspire to wear for a few short months a tribute of affection. [Applause.] As to the succession to the unexpired term in the senate, he declared that he had been tendered the honor by the governor and had declined it because of opposition developed to such a cause. There the matter rested and there it would have finally rested, but for the importunity of friends in all parts of the state. [Applause.] If any man of well known public services had offered for the place even then he would not have been an aspirant; but as there was an idea that this honor was to be given to the young men of Georgia, he had offered himself for it. If the legislature chooses a man for the long term and deems it best to send him also for the short term, said he, do not let me stand in the way. [Cheers.] I do not claim to have rendered the state any illustrious service, and I don't think my honorable competitor for this honor can make any such claim.

The Escape.

The wholesale escape from the stockade last night was given a thorough investigation by the city officials yesterday, and, although every clue was closely traced, the officials were unable to ascertain where the prisoners secured the key. The investigation induces the belief that one of the prisoners picked up the hammer and chisel as he passed through the hallway leading to the cells one day last week and secreted them in his cell. It is further believed that the plane was arranged among the prisoners while they were at work the day of the escape. None of the prisoners have been recaptured.

anty. The offense with which the prisoner stands accused is rape, and the details of the crime are told in the Conyers Examiner of the 3d instant, in the following language: "A rather heinous case occurred in Sheffield district, of this county, a week or two ago. A man by the name of A. Neal, had living with him a little girl, nine years old, a niece of his wife, who was in the habit of going out to the field with him to pick cotton, and he one day violated her person, inton, and he one day violated her person, injuring her so she had to be carried to the house. Dr. C. H. Turner was called to see her. As soon as the affair began to be known in the neighborhood, Neal sloped for parts unknown, for fear of the indignation of his neighbors. Fortunately, the shild was not neighbors. Fortunately the child was not permanently injured, and has entirely re-covered from the assault." Neal denies being guilty of the offense and expresses a willingness to go back to Rockdale.

Chairman Library Com BEN HILL, JR., ADVOCATED.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: I ask for space to advocate the claims of Ben Hill, Jr., as compared with those of Hon. Pope Barrow for the unexpired term of his father in the United States senate. His opponents urge that his election would tend to establish a bad precedent and one against the genius of our democratic government. It will never do "they say," to elect a son to fill the unexpired term of his father, because to do so would build up a privileged class. This argument is simply absurd and does not deceive any man of ordinary intelligence. Besides it is unfair and unjust to Ben Hill. It is true that Mr. Hill is not the equal of his great father—the centuries do not produce but one such man. But Mr. Hill is the equal of not the superior of Pope Barrow, his competitor.

Mr. Barrow's public career is limited to one term in the general assembly, and as a member of the late gubernatorial convention. If I mistake not. In the first he stood well, in the second he made a very neat little speech against the majority rule, and this about sums up his public life so far as L can learn. Mr. Hill has been solicitor-general of the most important circuit in the state. During that time he has met successfully, the most eminent criminal lawyers of Georgia. He has been victorious in nearly every contest, and has performed the responsible duties of his arduous office in such a way as not only to win the respect, but the love of the speople of his circuit. In the celebrated Cox murder case his speech was generally conceded to be the ablest—excelling even the arguments of such men as Judge Hopkins, Joel Billups and Judge Twiggs. In short, as a lawyer, Mr. Hill has made a reputation for himself which the great fame of his father does not entirely overshadow. I do not mean to draw a comparison between the ability of Mr. Hill and Mr. Barrow. Mr. Barrow is ten years older than Mr. Hill, but in judging each by his public works, I must confess to my honest convictions that Mr. Hill is superior to Mr. Barrow is suited for the position and that Mr. Hill is not capacitated, and that the friends of Mr. Hill are simply asking his election as a tribute to the memory of his father without his being fit to fill the position. Messrs. Editors, I am thoroughly in accord with this sentiment that the election of Ben Hill, Jr., to fill the unexpired term of our great senator, would be a most graceful compliment to the memory of Georgia's most beloved son, and to show this respect for his memory. I urge he election of Ben Hill. Our dead senator was not always fully appreciated, and his glorious tongue was silenced by that dreadful disease that our people realized in all its fulness, ther terrible loss. If the son who bears his name was unworthy it would be improper to indulge this sentiment. But the son is not unworthy. In head and heart he has no superior of his ag
